Constanta, Romania:

PETRO JOBS RECRUITMENT successfully participated and exhibited at the SMM Hamburg 2014 shipping trade fair in Germany between 8 and 10 September, taking its offshore marine recruitment solutions to a host of German owners and shipmanagers who are engaged in deep sea oil and gas mining.

SMM Hamburg is one of the largest maritime trade fairs in Europe, and takes place once every two years, and acts as a showcase and networking opportunity for European shipyards and its supply industry. "German shipowners and operators are a key target group of this fair. With billions invested in state-of-the-art technology for both newbuilds and ships in service they have made Germany the world's third largest shipping nation," said Ralf Nagel, Managing President of the German shipowners' association, VDR.

This year, a record 50,000 industry visitors came to SMM Hamburg and visited stalls and pavilions set by over 2,100 exhibitors from 67 countries. "I am extremely pleased to see the industry looking more optimistically into the future after having gone through troublesome years. This positive message is being sent from Hamburg into the world," said Mr. Uwe Beckmeyer, German Parliamentary Secretary at the Federal Ministry for Economic Affairs and Energy, and Federal Government Coordinator for the Maritime Industry. SMM Hamburg took place under the patronage of the German Chancellor, Angela Merkel.

Petro Jobs Recruitment used its participation at SMM Hamburg 2014 to interact with the German and European shipping community, and highlight the availability of reliable and experienced seafaring talent in the energy transport sector in Romania. "Germany is an important market for us because we get to know what is happening in our industry in terms of new technologies and capital investments in newbuildings and other acquisitions," said Adrian Andrusca, Managing Director, Petro Jobs Recruitment.

"This year a lot of innovation was on display at the event — from shipbuilding and ship outfitting prod-
